International Epilepsy Day #purpleday

Monday 26th March

Please join me by WEARING SOMETHING PURPLE TO SCHOOL to help raise awareness of Epilepsy and to raise some money for charity.

My brother Ben has complex epilepsy. Please come to school on MONDAY 26TH MARCH, wearing something PURPLE with your school uniform to support this, and if you wish, give a voluntary donation to our chosen epilepsy charity, “The Daisy Garland”

The Daisy Garland Charity is a small, UK based Epilepsy Charity dedicated to supporting families of children with difficult to control epilepsy. It is a family charity, set up by the parents of Daisy Garland, who died in her sleep from SUPED (sudden explained death in Epilepsy) at the age of 6. They provide night time monitors for children with severe epilepsy to help detect seizures. They have donated a monitor to my brother to keep him safe at night. Each monitor costs about £1000.

Please join me to support all people with Epilepsy and this wonderful charity. By Elinor McAnerney, Year 5.
